WHO SHOULD ATTEND

ACLS:

Experienced clinicians who have previously completed at least one ACLS course successfully. As much as possible, resuscitation simulations, which are relevant and realistic for the learner's background and current work environment, are used.

APLS:

Experienced clinicians involved in care of critically ill children. Participants are recommended to have previously completed at least one PALS or APLS course successfully.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

ACLS:

Provides the knowledge and skills needed to evaluate and manage the first 10 minutes of an adult ventricular fibrillation/ventricular tachycardia (VF/VT) arrest. Learn to manage 10 core ACLS cases: a respiratory emergency, four type of cardiac arrest, four types of pre-arrest emergencies, and stroke.

APLS:

Learn to assess and manage critically ill children and detect an imminently toxic child and institute treatment without delay within the first hour of presentation to the ER. This course consists of presentations, simulator-based scenarios, and skills stations covering respiratory emergencies, shock, central nervous system problems, pediatric trauma, surgical emergencies, neonatal emergencies, common toxins, and maltreatment.
