SEXUAL HEALTH 2017 CONVERSATIONS THAT MATTER

MAR 31 & APR 1, 2017
FRI & SAT

RADISSON HOTEL VANCOUVER AIRPORT
RICHMOND BC

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

- Family Physicians
- Nurse Practitioners
- Midwives
- Registered Nurses
- Specialists
- Residents
- Other Allied Health Professionals

Sexual health is important to patients, but may be neglected by clinicians due to lack of training, fluency or comfort. In society and as individuals we recognize sex's role in pleasure, relationships and identity. As clinicians, however, we direct our attention primarily to the negative consequences of sex: preventing or addressing conception, disease and violence. We may also forget that some aspects of sexuality have nothing to do with sex.

This popular conference seeks to expand the clinical conversation about sexual health, which is relevant to all clinicians - whether we work in primary care, specialty or focused practice. If and how we have those conversations has profound impacts for our patients.

Participants will:

- Recognize the importance of sexual health for the wellbeing of patients of all ages, all genders and all orientations
- Develop confidence and competence in a range of topics germane to sexual health
- Acquire strategies to apply in their practice
